

Statement from the Young Generation Event at FR09

December 9, 2009

YGE representatives

Ms. Ren Lixia, CIAE, China

Mr. Liu Yizhe, CIAE, China

Mr. Stéphane Beils, AREVA, France

Mr. Fabrizio Gabrielli, KIT, Germany

Mr. Takahisa Jo, JAEA, Japan

Mr. W.J. Chang, KAIST, Korea

Ms. K.L. Lee, KEARI, Korea

Mr. Sergey Poglyad, RIARs, Russia

Mr. William David Pointer, ANL, USA

Mr. Edouard Hourcade, ENS YGN (CEA), France

The necessity for international cooperation

- Information exchanges are to be promoted at international level, especially in the fields of safety and economics, which are of common importance.

IAEA as a coordinator on the international cooperation

- Information exchange between seniors and young generations should be promoted on the platform of IAEA.
- The information exchange should focus on not only the technology transfer between generations but also the seniors' experiences.
- As well as the opportunities to contact seniors through conferences, working with seniors is effective for the knowledge transfer. IAEA should provide these two opportunities simultaneously for young generations.
- IAEA's sponsorship is essential for the continuous international cooperation.

International cooperation among the world's young generations

- International young organizations, such as International Youth Nuclear Congress (IYNC) and Young Generation Network (YGN) in each country, may be linked for international cooperation.
- Young generations will be encouraged through their international cooperation.